

UC Santa Barbara

Journal of Transnational American Studies

Title

Selected Bibliography of Thomas Bender's Works

Permalink

<https://escholarship.org/uc/item/02b068fx>

Journal

Journal of Transnational American Studies, 11(2)

Author

Bender, Thomas

Publication Date

2020

License

<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/> 4.0

Selected Bibliography of Thomas Bender's Works

Tom Bender has been a foundational figure in Transnational American Studies, both in his scholarly writing and his interventions as a public intellectual. His 1986 article, “Wholes and Parts: The Need for Synthesis in American History,” challenged historians to find ways to bring together the fragmented narratives and points of view generated by the new social history to form a unified synthesis. In the years that followed, whether in his studies on antislavery debates, or the role of universities in urban spaces, he sought to indicate ways to expand historical studies to take in diverse points of view. Finally, his interest in bringing together the “plentitude of narratives” led him to organize a group of distinguished historians from the United States and abroad to explore ways of rethinking and reframing the American national narrative in a wider context. The result, the volume Rethinking American History in a Global Age, provided a discussion of ways to study and teach American history in a transnational context. In A Nation Among Nations, Bender then took on the task of producing a synthesis of American history that would challenge conventional nation-state narratives. It is an admirable example of a transnational American history, one that positions the development of the United States within wider transnational political and economic developments.

Selected Bibliography

Thomas Bender. A Nation Among Nations: America's Place in World History. New York: Hill and Wang, 2006.

———. New York Intellect: A History of Intellectual Life in New York City from 1750 to the Beginnings of Our Own Time. New York: Alfred D. Knopf, 1987.

———. “Strategies of Narrative Synthesis in American History.” American Historical Review 107, no. 1 (2002): 129–53. <https://www.jstor.org/stable/10.1086/532101>.

———. “Wholes and Parts: The Need for Synthesis in American History.” Journal of American History 73, no. 1 (1986): 120–36. <https://doi.org/10.2307/1903608>.

———. “Writing American History, 1789–1945.” In The Oxford History of Historical Writing, 1800–1945, Volume 4: 1800–1945, edited by Stuart Macintyre, Juan Manguashca, and Attila Pók, 369–89. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2011.

- , editor. The Antislavery Debate: Capitalism and Abolitionism as a Problem in Historical Interpretation. Berkeley and Los Angeles: University of California Press, 1992.
- , editor. Rethinking American History in a Global Age. Berkeley: University of California Press, 2002.
- , editor. The University and the City: From Medieval Origins to the Present. New York: Oxford University Press, 1988.
- , and Carl E. Schorske, editors. Budapest and New York: Studies in Metropolitan Transformation, 1870–1930. New York: Russell Sage Foundation, 1994.
- , and Michael Peter Smith, editors. City and Nation: Rethinking Place and Identity. New Brunswick, NJ: Transaction Publishers, 2001.