Learned English with Barney
And the novela hour, Babysat myself and el gordo during Saturday Baywatch and Sunday morning cartoons I loved those Cheeto days getting honor roll, perfect attendance, and award metals

Ay, I, brought by a desperate mother and an alcoholic father Born in the, so-called “wrong side” tired of pleasing and trying to impress you jumping over every bump you throw my way while you try so hard to lead me astray

Why do you hate me, call me “illegal?” Why are you so scared?

Scared of me?
my color? my people?
Or our potential?

Nah, there is no need to debate my dreams are larger than your hate So like Fox News
let me give you an update

CriminalICEd “indigenous immigrants” U.S. paradox created

Kati’s brown ICEs cry her punished parents Abducted for being born on southern side

I see white dreams fulfilling like it’s easy

I see my dreams betraying my ICE Telling me, "don't you realICE, you need a milagro"

A miracle to escape this slave, cage, they've put me in To escape the walls they build bars that they set glass ceiling, they Wind-ex
To escape without fear

Minuteman, You need a limpia from your susto cuz I am not the criminal!
the one to blame an "illegal" the other

I am you... your ancestors reaching this land Inhabited, feeding, sustaining my antepasados.
Re-member your ancestors with Columbus Overstayed-uninvited-visa lacking-immigrants, too

& in case you were wondering I do not hate the Sheriff the fear and ignorance he emits makes me feel sorry for him

He has tortured me terrorICEd me still I stand free as a tree with deeper roots than you can ever imagine if you deport us all YOU will have to clean your own toilets build your own homes and pick your own food

I know it is not convenient to end oppressions But we endure, and we will not give up... when these dreams reach reality you will remember this poem you will remember me
