New Books

This column will highlight new books published on different topics of interest to LHTN readers including library systems, digital libraries, metadata analysis, the Internet and its development, technology training, wireless technologies, hand-held information devices and personal appliances, copyright and legal implications of publishing and distribution, and other timely subjects. We hope to establish a group of book reviewers to explore more fully the content of books and if you are interested in writing reviews we ask that you please contact Julia Gelfand, co-editor (jgelfand@uci.edu), with your interests and mailing address, so materials can be sent to you.
