Why to archive: Web ephemera?

• "To articulate the past historically does not mean to recognize it 'the way it really was' (Ranke). It means to seize hold of a memory as it flashes up at a moment of danger."

Dear Ms. Krasulina,

I hope that this email finds you well. At UC Berkeley, in collaboration with the British Library and the Bavarian State Library, I am curating a web archive of Belarus events in light of contested Presidential elections in Belarus. I wondered if we can have permission from you and the president-elect Ms. Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya to archive her website for non-commercial, academic research purposes?

We hope to get your permission to make her website a part of our web-archive and preserve it for the coming decades. If you do not wish to grant the consent, please let us know. We will make it a part of a dark archive that will not be available to the public as it is archived for preservation purposes.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,
Liladhar
Dear Dr. Pendse,

We give you permission from our team and the president-elect Ms. Sylatana Tsikhanouskaya to archive her website for non-commercial, academic research purposes. We give you our permission to make her website a part of your web-archive and preserve it for the coming decades.

Best regards,
press-secretary of Sylatana Tsikhanouskaya
Anna Krasulina
