An EndNote style file is available at <http://www.biogeography.org/html/fb.html> to format your manuscripts for Frontiers of Biogeography; we still recommend manually checking consistent formatting throughout in case of errors in the originating database.

If you are a Zotero user, go to <http://www.biogeography.org/html/fb.html> to download a CSL style file then load it through the style manager. Instructions on how to do this are available at <https://www.zotero.org/support/styles> within the "Alternative Installation Methods" section. Known issues: the doi for in press manuscripts will not be added automatically, please edit the bibliography manually to add it before submission.

The mean time between submission and first decision for articles published in Frontiers of Biogeography during 2016 was 92 days, and the mean time from submission to publication was 121 days (median 73 and 105 days, respectively).

For a limited time: The special issue Frontiers of Biogeography t-shirt is available to first-authors of research papers—research letters, research articles, monographs, opinions, perspectives, and reviews—that are published in the journal.

FAQ: How should I cite articles published in Frontiers of Biogeography?

A: Although Frontiers is an online journal, we have adopted a quarterly publication model and volume-issue-pages format that simplifies citation format. Adapt the Frontiers style to your preferred journal's chosen format: e.g., Cottee-Jones, H.E.W. & Whittaker, R.J. (2012) The keystone species concept: a critical appraisal. Frontiers of Biogeography, 4, 117–127.
