ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In addition to the invaluable criticism of manuscripts provided by our anonymous faculty referees, the editorial board at the UCLA Historical Journal would like to thank the following professors for their scholarly advice and ready assistance:

JOYCE O. APPLEBY
ROBERT I. BURNS, S.J.
PEDRO CHALMETA
JOHN S. GALBRAITH
DANIEL W. HOWE
NORRIS HUNDLEY, JR.
PETER LOEWENBERG

MICHAEL MORONY
GARY B. NASH
MARY E. PERRY
HANS ROGGER
HARRY N. SCHEIBER
REBA SOFFER
FRANCIS N. STITES

The Department of History at the University of California, Los Angeles, also has been especially generous with its staff and facilities. The editors are grateful too for the steadfast financial support of the Graduate Students Association, Dean Antony Orme of the College of Letters and Science, the Social Sciences Council, and the History Graduate Students Association, all at UCLA.

For the first time this year the Journal received contributions toward its newly-established Theodore Saloutos Award for outstanding graduate work. The editorial board would like to thank all who contributed to the award fund, and invites others to help guarantee the perpetuity of this award.

As departing Editor-in-Chief I personally wish to extend special thanks to Managing Editor, Nan Yamane, whose spirit and drive I applaud and whose moral support has been irreplaceable. Former Editors-in-Chief Doug Littlefield and Brad Newfield freely contributed their time and know-how toward single article revisions, and Doug provided an experienced copyediting hand for which I am grateful. Also, thanks go to Tim Seymour, who donated his artistic skills, and to M. Maietta, staff typist, who kept her sense of humor during frustrating assignments. Several board members pitched in this year to assist a working-class editor with the unending knit-picky minutiae; their support was cheerfully given and indispensable. Finally, congratulations and hopes for much success to next year's Editor-in-Chief, Patricia Kozlik Wright, and Managing Editor, Deborah Gold. Their ideas already are underway for an innovative fifth edition.
