Introduction

The statistical tabulations in this volume are based on a Berkeley IGS Poll completed online in English and Spanish May 17-22, 2023 among 7,465 California registered voters, of whom 1,853 were registered Republicans including a weighted subsample of 1,472 Republicans were considered likely to vote in the state's March 2024 GOP presidential primary. The survey was conducted by the Institute of Governmental Studies (IGS) at the University of California, Berkeley. Funding for the poll was provided in part by the Los Angeles Times.

The poll was conducted by distributing email invitations to stratified random samples of the state's registered voters. Each email invited voters to participate in a non-partisan survey conducted by the University and provided a link to the IGS website where the survey was housed. Reminder emails were distributed to non-responding voters and an opt out link was provided for voters not wishing to receive further email invitations.

Samples of California registered voters with email addresses were derived from information contained on the official voter registration rolls and provided to IGS by Political Data, Inc., a leading supplier of registered voter lists.

To protect the anonymity of respondents, voters' email addresses and all other personally identifiable information derived from the original voter listing were purged from the data file and replaced with a unique and anonymous identification number during data processing. In addition, after the completion of data collection, post-stratification weights were applied to the survey data file to align the sample of registered voters to population characteristics of the registered voters statewide and within major regions of the state.

The sampling error associated with the survey results is difficult to calculate precisely because of sample stratification and the post-stratification weighting. Nevertheless, it is likely that findings based on the overall sample of registered voters are subject to a sampling error of approximately +/-2 percentage points at the 95% confidence level, while approximate sampling error of findings from both the Republican registered voter sample and its likely voter subsample are +/- 3.5 percentage points.

Table 9: Q11(2) Last week a jury in New York found Donald Trump liable for the sexual abuse and defamation of magazine writer E. Jean Carroll and ordered him to pay her $5 million in damages. Trump called Carroll’s claims lies, said the trial was a witch hunt and that he would appeal the ruling. Do you agree or disagree with the following statements about this? — The verdict should be treated with seriousness and is another example of the indefensible behavior of former President Trump.
